

HOW TO MAKE A BEE HOTEL

There are lots of different types of bee, and many (known as 'solitary bees') don't live in bee hives - they sleep in trees, in burrows, under stones, in long grass or tucked away in any little sunny corner of the garden. You can help them by making a 'hotel' bee box as somewhere for them to sleep.

JORDANS
+10%
CHALLENGE

Join us and create homes for wildlife in your garden

YOU'LL NEED

Sticks and twigs (different sizes)

Cane (hollow wooden 'tubes')

String

Leaves (ones on the ground that are brown)

Scissors

WHAT TO DO

1

Bunch all of the twigs, leaves, cane and sticks together in a bundle

2

Tie the string around the middle, making a tight knot to secure them all together

3

Trim off any bits that are too long (careful with the scissors or ask an adult for help)

4

Then tie your 'hotel' bee box to a tree branch, under a bush or in a hedge. Pick a sunny, dry part of the garden and wait for the buzzing to start!